2.0 One clear picture — how the Company became an empire

British rule in India did not begin as a planned land empire. It grew in phases. Hold this map first; every later card plugs into it.

Phase	Rough years	Method	Key fact
Commercial foothold	to c.1750	Factories under local leave	Surat, Calcutta, Madras
Political breakthrough	1757–65	Puppet Nawab → Diwani	Plassey → Buxar → Allahabad
Dual / direct Bengal	1765–72	Take revenue, dodge blame → then direct charge	Clive creates; Hastings ends Dual Govt
Ring Fence	1770s–90s	Buffer states around Bengal	Awadh as shield; not Subsidiary Alliance
Non-intervention	Cornwallis (कॉर्नवालिस) / Shore	Avoid costly wars when possible	Brief pause before Wellesley
Subsidiary Alliance	Wellesley 1798–1805	Troops + subsidy + Resident	First = Hyderabad 1798
Paramountcy	Lord Hastings era	Smash rivals; claim overlordship	Nepal, Pindaris, Third Maratha
Annexation drive	Dalhousie 1848–56	Lapse + war + “misrule”	Jhansi/Nagpur vs Awadh 1856 (अवध)

Why the English won (Spectrum facts, keep short):

- Better firearms, drill and paid standing troops.
- Steady war finance from Bengal revenue after 1765.

- Indian powers were divided; the Company picked allies and paid traitors.
- A second line of commanders (Clive, Coote, Lake, Arthur Wellesley) fought for the Company, not only for one king.

What this topic does not dig into: day-to-day Permanent Settlement (स्थायी बंदोबस्त) detail and full Governor-General reform lists live with administration notes. Here the fact is expansion.

> Logic: Start every answer from the phase. Plassey is not Diwani. Subsidiary is not Lapse. Warren Hastings is not Lord Hastings.

Deccan (दक्कन) marker — Battle of Shakarkheda, 1724

Nizam-ul-Mulk (Asaf Jah I) vs Mubariz Khan | Berar / Buldhana belt | 11 October 1724

- After Aurangzeb (औरंगजेब), Deccan politics broke into successor contests. The Mughal court under Muhammad Shah tried to check Nizam-ul-Mulk (निजाम-उल-मुल्क) by backing Mubariz Khan as Deccan subedar.
- At Shakarkheda (Shakar Kheda (खेड़ा)), Nizam-ul-Mulk defeated and killed Mubariz Khan.
- Maratha help under Baji Rao I is often noted in this fight.
- The victory fixed Asaf Jahi power in the Deccan and is treated as the founding moment of independent Hyderabad under the Nizams.
- Chronology marker: Shakarkheda = 1724 — before Bedara, Porto Novo, or Mudki.

> Logic: Shakarkheda is Nizam (निजाम) vs Mughal nominee, not Anglo-Mysore and not Anglo-Sikh.

2.1 Bengal on the eve — Nawabs and Company friction

Richest Mughal subah | capital Murshidabad | Company base Fort William, Calcutta

- Bengal's wealth rested on textiles, saltpetre, indigo (नील) and land revenue.
- Under Emperor Farrukhsiyar's farman of 1717, the Company gained major duty-free trade privileges in Bengal for a fixed annual payment. Later Nawabs fought the private misuse of those dastaks.
- Conflict grew when English private traders used dastaks (duty-free passes) beyond Company goods.
- The Nawabs wanted customs control. The Company wanted fort rights and trade privilege.
- Murshid Quli Khan (मुर्शिद कुली खान) (from 1717) was the first strong independent-minded Nawab and the last Subedar of Bengal appointed independently by the Mughal Emperor. He shifted the capital from Dhaka to Maksudabad, renamed Murshidabad, and used the ijara (revenue-farming) system in land settlement.
- Shujauddin followed him. Then came Sarfaraz Khan.
- Alivardi Khan killed Sarfaraz and ruled 1740–56.
- Alivardi fought the Maratha Bargis. He was the last strong Nawab before the Plassey crisis.

- Comparing Europeans to honeybees, Alivardi said that if left undisturbed they give honey, but if disturbed they sting to death.
- Alivardi died in April 1756. His young grandson Siraj-ud-Daulah succeeded.

Siraj-ud-Daulah and the road to Plassey, 1756–57

Nawab of Bengal | capital Murshidabad | short reign 1756–57

Court and succession (उत्तराधिकार क्रम)

- Siraj inherited a divided court. Powerful rivals included his aunt Ghaseti Begum, cousin Shaukat Jung of Purnea, the state bankers Jagat Seth, merchant Omichand (Amin Chand), and commanders such as Mir Jafar and Rai (राई) Durlabh.
- Bankers and nobles feared Siraj's temper and feared for their wealth. That distrust later opened the door to Clive's conspiracy.

Three grievances against the English

- The Company misused dastaks under the 1717 farman. Private English traders escaped customs and drained Nawabi revenue.
- The English strengthened Fort William at Calcutta without the Nawab's leave, especially after fear of the French in the Seven Years' War.
- The Company gave asylum to Krishnadas, son of Raj Ballabh, who had fled with treasure against Siraj's will. Siraj demanded extradition. Calcutta refused.
- Siraj sent envoys to settle these points. Governor Roger Drake insulted the Nawab's messenger and refused to demolish the new works. Open clash followed.

Course — Kasimbazar, Calcutta, Black Hole

- Siraj first took the English factory (फैक्टरी) at Kasimbazar (Cossimbazar).
- He then marched on Calcutta and captured Fort William on 20 June 1756.
- He renamed Calcutta Alinagar for a short time and left it under his officers.
- After the fall, English prisoners were locked overnight in a small fort dungeon. J. Z. Holwell later claimed about 146 were packed into a cell of roughly 18 × 14 feet, and that about 123 died of heat and suffocation, with only about 23 surviving. That story is the Black Hole of Calcutta.
- Numbers are debated by modern writers. Contemporary Muslim historian Ghulam Hussain does not mention the episode in Siyar-ul-Mutakherin. Holwell's account still became English propaganda for revenge.

English return and Treaty of Alinagar

- News reached Madras. Robert Clive and Admiral Charles Watson sailed north with a relief force.
- They recaptured Calcutta in January 1757.
- Under pressure, Siraj signed the Treaty of Alinagar on 9 February 1757.
- The treaty restored English trade privileges under the old farman, returned Calcutta, and allowed the Company to fortify Fort William. The Company recognised Siraj as Nawab and promised peace.
- Trust was already dead. Clive soon opened secret talks with Mir Jafar, Jagat Seth, Rai Durlabh, Yar Latif Khan and Omichand. That conspiracy decided Plassey (23 June 1757).

Nawab	Years	Tag
Murshid Quli Khan	from 1717	Last Mughal-appointed Subedar; Murshidabad; ijara
Shujauddin	after Murshid Quli	Bridge ruler before Sarfaraz
Sarfaraz Khan	brief	Killed by Alivardi
Alivardi Khan	1740–56	Last strong Nawab; Bargis; honeybee remark
Siraj-ud-Daulah	1756–57	Three grievances; Alinagar; Black Hole; fell at Plassey
Mir Jafar	from 1757	First puppet after Plassey
Mir Qasim	1760–63	Munger; equal duties; Buxar ally
Najm-ud-Daulah	after 1765	Pensioned figurehead under Diwani

> Logic: Siraj's three grievances = dastaks, Fort William, Krishnadas asylum. Alinagar is February 1757, not Diwani. Black Hole is Holwell's claim, not an undisputed headcount. Independent Nawabi ends at Plassey (प्लासी); Diwani is 1765.

2.2 Battle of Plassey, 23 June 1757

Palashi (Nadia, Bengal) on the Bhagirathi (भागीरथी) | English Robert Clive | Nawab Siraj-ud-Daulah

Causes

- The long quarrel of 1756–57 is taught in the Siraj card above: dastak misuse, Fort William works, Krishnadas asylum, capture of Calcutta, Black Hole propaganda, then Treaty of Alinagar.
- After Alinagar the English still feared French help to Siraj in the Seven Years' War.
- Court enemies of Siraj — Mir Jafar (mir bakshi), Rai Durlabh, banker Jagat Seth, Yar Latif Khan, and intermediary Omichand — plotted with Clive to replace the Nawab.
- Clive's aim was no longer only restored trade. It was a puppet Nawab who would protect Company power in Bengal.

Course of the battle

- Clive's force was small, about 3,000. Siraj's army (सेना) looked large on paper, about 50,000.
- Before the fight, Clive sealed a secret deal: Mir Jafar would be made Nawab if he held back his troops.
- Omichand was deceived by Clive's forged or dual treaty.
- On 23 June 1757 the armies met at Plassey. Fighting lasted only hours on one afternoon.
- Rain soaked Siraj's gunpowder. That helped the English, but conspiracy was the real reason for defeat.
- Mir Jafar and Rai Durlabh did not press their wings. Siraj's line collapsed.
- Siraj fled, was captured, and was later killed on orders linked to Mir Jafar's side (Miran).

Results

- Mir Jafar became the first puppet Nawab of Bengal.
- The Company received the zamindari of the 24 Parganas and huge presents.
- Plassey founded a political empire through a puppet. It did not give the Diwani.
- English military supremacy in Bengal was fixed. The road to northern politics opened.
- Independent Nawabi power effectively ended.

> Logic: Plassey = 1757, Clive, Mir Jafar. Diwani = 1765 after Buxar.

2.3 From Mir Qasim to Buxar and the Treaty of Allahabad

Mir Qasim and the break with the Company (background to Buxar)

- Mir Jafar could not satisfy endless Company demands. In 1760 the Company replaced him with son-in-law Mir Qasim.
- Under the 1760 arrangement, Mir Qasim cleared dues, promised war help in the south, and accepted friendship with the Company. Mir Jafar was pensioned.
- Mir Qasim shifted the capital to Munger (Monghyr) to keep distance from Calcutta.
- He reformed the army on European lines and set up arms works at Munger for matchlock manufacture.
- He tried to abolish internal duties so that Indian and English traders paid equally.
- Officers involved in embezzlement were fined heavily; new taxes helped repair Bengal's finances.
- Private English misuse of dastaks made equal duties a clash of principles. Open war followed in 1763.
- After the Patna (पटना) massacre of 1763, the English reinstalled Mir Jafar. Mir Qasim fled west and joined Awadh and the Emperor.

Battle of Buxar, 22 October 1764

Buxar (Bihar) | English commander Major Hector Munro | Clive was in England

Causes

- Mir Qasim's equal-duty policy and war with the Company in 1763 left him without Bengal.
- He sought help from Shuja-ud-Daula (शुजाउद्दौला) of Awadh (अवध) and the Mughal Emperor Shah Alam II.
- The three formed a triple alliance to break English power in northern India.
- For the Company, this was no longer a Bengal palace fight. It was a contest for supremacy over the Gangetic plains.

Course of the war / battle

- After Patna and the 1763 fighting, Mir Qasim's own force was weakened. The real strength of the coalition (गठबंधन) was Awadh and imperial troops.

- The armies met at Buxar on 22 October 1764.
- Munro's disciplined Company sepoys and artillery faced a much larger Indian coalition.
- The fight was a real pitched battle, not a Plassey-style conspiracy.
- Coalition coordination broke under Munro's attack. Mir Qasim's contingent failed to hold.
- Henry Vansittart was Governor of Bengal at the time of Buxar; Mir Jafar was again Nawab of Bengal on the Company side of the political ledger.
- Shuja-ud-Daula's army was driven back. Shah Alam II's position collapsed with the field.
- The triple alliance was routed. Mir Qasim fled again. Shuja retreated toward Awadh. Shah Alam sought terms with the English.

Results

- Buxar made the Company the strongest power in northern India, not only in Bengal.
- Unlike Plassey, this was a clear military verdict against three major Indian powers together.
- Restored Mir Jafar (and then his successor) had to hand Midnapore, Burdwan and Chittagong revenues toward Company army costs. That was still short of full Diwani.
- Political settlement waited for Clive's return in 1765. The legal stamp of victory was the Treaty of Allahabad (इलाहाबाद की संधि).
- Revenue of Bengal–Bihar–Orissa after Diwani financed later Company wars across India.

Treaty of Allahabad, August 1765 (settlement of Buxar)

Clive returned in 1765 and settled two linked treaties at Allahabad / the Prayagraj belt.

Party	Terms
Shah Alam II	Granted Diwani of Bengal, Bihar, Orissa; about ₹26 lakh/year; lived under Company protection at Allahabad
Shuja-ud-Daula	Kept Awadh after large indemnity (about ₹50 lakh); Allahabad and Kora (Kara) went to the Emperor under English control; Banaras zamindar (ज़मींदार) Balwant Singh secured
Bengal Nawab	Najm-ud-Daulah became a pensioned figurehead

- Diwani = right to collect land revenue.
- Spectrum also notes a large Company claim linked to nizamat functions (defence, police, justice) alongside the Diwani farman. In practice Dual Government blurred both.
- Political empire now had a legal Mughal stamp.

> Logic: Munro fought; Clive settled. Allahabad = 1765. Buxar is not a Bengal-only battle.

2.4 Bengal administration after Diwani

- Diwani (1765) meant the Company collected revenue of Bengal, Bihar and Orissa.

- Nizamat (police and criminal justice) stayed in the Nawab's name.
- In practice the Company also controlled Nizamat by nominating the deputy and keeping the army.
- Dual Government (1765–72) was Clive's design: take the profit, avoid the blame for day-to-day rule.
- Under Dual Government the Company held real power (army + revenue) while the Nawab kept the show of sovereignty.
- The Nawab received a fixed nizamat allowance; the Company took the surplus of the Diwani.
- The Company appointed two deputy Diwans: Muhammad Reza Khan for Bengal (Murshidabad) and Raja Shitab Rai for Bihar. Indians ran collection under Company authority.
- Company servants and their agents drained Bengal through private trade and forced purchases. Responsibility for famine and disorder stayed on the Nawab's empty title.
- K. M. Panikkar later called Bengal under Dual Government a "state of dacoits" for the Company's plunder phase (1765–72).
- After Diwani, English contact with the Khasi (खासी) hills grew from the Sylhet side. Later road plans under David Scott met tough resistance under Tirot Sing.
- Administration collapsed. The Bengal Famine of 1770 is the catastrophe of this dual system.
- In 1772 Warren Hastings ended Dual Government. The Company took direct civil and revenue charge.
- Hastings shifted the seat of revenue management toward Calcutta, dismissed the dual fiction, and brought Reza Khan / Shitab Rai under Company trial and control.
- Clive governed Bengal 1758–60 and again 1765–67 (Diwani and Dual Government). During his terms Company plunder of Bengal resources deepened, and a White Mutiny among English officers also belongs to his governorship phase.
- Verelst and Cartier governed while Dual Government continued, including the famine years.
- Hastings (1772–85) ended Dual Government, used Ring Fence, faced Banaras 1781, and fought the First Maratha War.
- Cornwallis (1786–93) later brought the Permanent Settlement of Bengal (administration detail lives with revenue notes).

> Logic: Clive created Dual Government; Hastings ended it in 1772, not in 1857. Deputy Diwans = Reza Khan (Bengal) and Shitab Rai (Bihar).

2.5 Robert Clive

Company writer at Madras from 1743 | defence of Arcot 1751 | Plassey 1757 (प्लासी) | Diwani settlement 1765

- He rose in the Carnatic struggle and became the architect of English power in Bengal.
- He designed the Mir Jafar conspiracy that won Plassey.
- He is widely called the founder of the British Empire in India. William Pitt called him a "Heaven-Born General."
- In his second Bengal term he negotiated the Treaty of Allahabad, 1765, and set up Dual Government.

- He did not command at Buxar.
- Parliament later inquired into his presents and jagir (जागीर).
- He died in 1774.

> Logic: Clive = Plassey + Diwani frame + "Heaven-Born General". Hastings = end of Dual Government + Ring Fence + Banaras + Salbai.

2.6 Warren Hastings (expansion only)

Governor of Bengal from 1772 | first Governor-General of Bengal from 1773 (Regulating Act)

- In 1772 he ended Dual Government. The Company took direct revenue and civil charge.
- His Ring Fence policy used friendly or dependent neighbours as an informal buffer ring around Bengal.
- Awadh was the main shield on the western side. The Company propped the Nawab so that Maratha or Afghan pressure would hit Awadh first, not Bengal.
- Ring Fence was defensive diplomacy, not a formal treaty system of British troops + subsidy + Resident.
- Do not call Ring Fence the Subsidiary Alliance. That ladder step belongs to Wellesley from 1798.
- He fought the Rohilla War in 1774 with Shuja-ud-Daula against the Rohillas of Rohilkhand.
- The First Anglo-Maratha War ended with the Treaty of Salbai, 1782.
- The Banaras Rebellion of 1781 was his clash with Raja Chait Singh of Banaras (present-day Varanasi (वाराणसी)).
- Hastings demanded war subsidy and cavalry, tried to arrest Chait Singh at Shivala, then fled to Chunar (चुनार). Major Popham helped crush the rising. Chait Singh was deposed. The case later fed Hastings's impeachment.
- The Asiatic Society of Bengal was founded in 1784 by Sir William Jones.
- Hastings declined the presidentship in Jones's favour.
- He was impeached in Britain from 1788 to 1795 over Chait Singh, the Rohillas and presents. He was acquitted.

> Logic: Keep this card for expansion facts — Dual Government 1772, Ring Fence, Salbai, Banaras. Full office/reform lists sit with Governor-General notes.

PYQ — UPPCS Prelims 2019, Q22

Assertion (A): The Asiatic Society of Bengal was established in the period of Warren Hastings and he modestly declined the offer of Presidentship of that learned body in favour of Sir William Jones.

Reason (R): Warren Hastings was himself a great scholar and an ardent orientalist (प्राच्यवादी) who used to encourage the study of Sanskrit, Persian (फ़ारसी) and Arabic.

Options: A. Both (A) and (R) are true and (R) is the correct explanation of (A) B. Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A) C. (A) is true, but (R) is false D. (A) is false, but (R) is true

Show answer

Ans: B — Both (A) and (R) are true, but (R) is not the correct explanation of (A). Hastings declined the presidentship out of modesty/deference to Jones's scholarship — his own being a scholar is a parallel fact, not the causal reason for declining.

2.7 British expansion policy — full ladder

There was not one policy from start to finish. Name the Governor-General and the tool.

Policy	Who	What it meant	example
Commercial leave	Early Company	Factories under farman / local grant	Surat, Calcutta
Puppet + Diwani	Clive	Install Nawab; then take revenue	Mir Jafar; Allahabad 1765
Ring Fence	Warren Hastings	Buffer allies around Bengal	Awadh as shield
Non-intervention	Cornwallis / John Shore	Avoid expensive forward wars when possible	Pause before Wellesley
Subsidiary Alliance	Wellesley (1798–1805)	British force + subsidy/cession + Resident; ruler keeps internal admin	Hyderabad 1798 first
Paramountcy	Lord Hastings	Company as overlord; crush remaining rivals	Nepal; Pindaris; Third Maratha
Doctrine of Lapse	Dalhousie from 1848	No natural heir → annex	Satara, Jhansi, Nagpur
Misrule annexation	Dalhousie	Annex for “bad government”	Awadh 1856 (not Lapse)
Masterly Inactivity	John Lawrence	Caution on Afghanistan after First Afghan War	Watch frontier; avoid occupation
Proud Reserve / Forward Policy	Lytton	Assertive Afghan line in the 1870s	Second Afghan War context

Cornwallis–Shore pause vs Wellesley expansion

- Cornwallis and John Shore preferred non-intervention when costly forward wars could be avoided.
- Cornwallis still fought when Company allies were hit — the Third Anglo-Mysore War is his expansion war, not Shore’s quiet phase.
- Wellesley (1798–1805) reversed the pause with open Subsidiary Alliance diplomacy and war.

- Wellesley's tools were British troops, subsidy or land cession, and a controlling Resident.
- Cornwallis–Shore = hold and settle when possible. Wellesley = bind courts and smash rivals who refuse.
- Wellesley fought the Fourth Mysore War and the Second Maratha War. He was recalled in 1805 because the wars cost too much.
- Lord Hastings (not Warren Hastings) fought Nepal, the Pindaris and the Third Maratha War.
- Ellenborough annexed Sindh in 1843 with field command under Sir Charles Napier.
- Hardinge fought the First Sikh War.
- Dalhousie annexed Punjab in 1849 and Awadh in 1856.
- The Vellore Mutiny (1806) sits between Wellesley's recall and the Nepal war on chronology charts.

> Logic: Wellesley did not invent Lapse. Dalhousie–Lapse is a standing match.

2.8 Subsidiary Alliance

Lord Wellesley (वेलेज़ली) (1798–1805) | perfected from earlier French practice (Dupleix (डुप्ले)'s idea, British system)

- The Indian ruler kept internal administration.
- He lost the right to war and peace and could not host other Europeans without British leave.
- He paid a subsidy or ceded land instead, and accepted a British Resident.
- The Company posted a subsidiary force "for his protection." In practice the Resident ran foreign policy.

State	Year
Hyderabad (Nizam)	1798 — first
Mysore (Wodeyar)	1799 after Tipu
Tanjore (Thanjavur (तंजावुर))	1799 (Wellesley period)
Awadh	1801 (ceded Rohilkhand / Doab (दोआब) tracts)
Peshwa (पेशवा)	1802 Treaty of Bassein
Sindhia / Bhonsle	after Second Maratha War
Many Rajput (राजपूत) states	under Lord Hastings after 1818

- The alliance looked cheaper than annexation at first.
- Wellesley also pressed hard on south Indian courts. Tanjore entered subsidiary terms, and the Carnatic (कर्नाटक) Nawabi was effectively reduced under Company control in the same forward phase.
- The subsidy later ruined treasuries. Awadh's path to 1856 is the classic example.
- Wellesley was recalled in 1805 because expansion wars were too expensive.

> Logic: First subsidiary = Hyderabad 1798, not Jhansi. Hyderabad was never annexed by Lapse.

2.9 Doctrine of Lapse and Awadh 1856

- Dalhousie used Lapse from 1848.
- If a dependent state had no natural heir, an adopted (अंगीकृत) son was not recognised.
- The state then lapsed to the Company.

State	Year	Note
Satara	1848	First major Lapse case
Jaitpur, Sambalpur	1849	Smaller Lapse annexations
Baghat	1850	Hill state; annexed then later restored in the Lapse story
Jhansi (झांसी)	1853	Gangadhar Rao died; Damodar (दामोदर) Rao (Lakshmibai (लक्ष्मीबाई)'s adopted son) rejected
Nagpur	1854	Major Lapse annexation
Awadh	1856	Wajid Ali Shah (वाजिद अली शाह); misgovernance, not Lapse

- Some lists also name Udaipur among threatened Lapse cases. Focus stays on Satara, Jhansi, Nagpur, and the Awadh ≠ Lapse trap.
- Awadh had already been hollowed by the 1801 subsidiary cessions of Rohilkhand / Doab tracts.
- Company Residents and British troops sat deep inside Awadh politics long before 1856.
- Dalhousie's public charge was misrule — weak justice, revenue disorder, and failure to reform under Resident pressure.
- In 1856 Resident Outram's reports and Dalhousie's "misrule" charge led to annexation. Wajid Ali Shah was deposed and sent toward Calcutta.
- Awadh was not annexed for want of a natural heir. That trap belongs to Jhansi and other Lapse cases.
- Lapse and "misrule" together fed the anger that later exploded in 1857, but this card stops at annexation.

> Logic: Dalhousie did not recognise Lakshmibai's heir. Awadh 1856 ≠ Lapse.

2.10 Anglo-Mysore Wars and Mysore State

- After Vijayanagara (विजयनगर)'s fall at Talikota (1565), a Wodeyar kingdom rose in Mysore (from early 17th century).
- Hyder Ali (हैदर अली) seized real power in 1761. He had already set up a modern armoury at Dindigal in 1755.
- Tipu Sultan (टीपू सुल्तान) succeeded in 1782. He used rockets, kept French contacts, and was called the Tiger of Mysore.
- Tipu also pushed state reforms in trade, sericulture and a new calendar. Papers still test wars and treaties first.
- The capital was Seringapatam (Srirangapatna (श्रीरंगपट्टनम)).

- Haidar Ali built a modern armoury / sepoy post at Dindigul in 1755 before he became full ruler of Mysore.
- At Seringapatam Tipu founded a Jacobin Club, became its member, and planted a Tree of Liberty as a sign of friendship with France.
- Tipu also gave money for the construction of the idol of Goddess Sharada at the Shringeri temple — a standard "correct statement" fact about him.
- Tipu also set up embassies on modern lines in foreign states such as Iran, Istanbul, Afghanistan and France to seek help against the English.
- There were four (चातुर्याम) Anglo-Mysore Wars. Fear of French help to Tipu shaped Wellesley's urgency in the Fourth War.

Anglo-Mysore war ladder

War	Years	End / result tag
First	1767–69	Treaty of Madras 1769 (मद्रास) — Hyder strong
Second	1780–84	Pollilur 1780; Porto Novo 1781; Treaty of Mangalore 1784 (मैंगलोर)
Third	1790–92	Treaty of Seringapatam 1792 — Tipu cedes about half
Fourth	1799	Tipu killed 4 May 1799; Wodeyar child under Subsidiary Alliance

First Anglo-Mysore War, 1767–69

Causes

- Hyder Ali's rise in Mysore alarmed the English, the Nizam and the Marathas.
- Shifting Carnatic alliances opened a four-sided contest for south Indian power.

Course

- Hyder fought the English in the Carnatic and even threatened Madras.
- Early English hopes of a quick win failed. Hyder's mobility kept the war open.

Results

- The Treaty of Madras, 1769 restored a rough status quo with mutual restitution of conquests.
- Hyder secured a defensive understanding that the English later failed to honour fully. That breach fed the Second War.

Second Anglo-Mysore War, 1780–84

Causes

- The English failed Hyder on promised help against the Marathas.
- Hyder also feared English capture of French Mahe.
- He allied with the Marathas and the Nizam against the Company.

Course

- Hyder and Tipu swept into the Carnatic.

- At Pollilur (1780) they crushed an English force under Baillie.
- Eyre Coote reversed the tide at Porto Novo (1781).
- Hyder died in 1782. Tipu continued the war until settlement.

Results

- The Treaty of Mangalore, 1784 restored prisoners and largely returned conquered places.
- Tipu remained strong. There was still no English subsidiary on Mysore.

Third Anglo-Mysore War, 1790–92

Causes

- Tipu attacked Travancore, an English ally.
- Cornwallis built a triple front with the Marathas and the Nizam.

Course

- Cornwallis personally led the campaign.
- The allies pressed Tipu back to Seringapatam. Tipu faced siege and ruin.

Results

- The Treaty of Seringapatam, 1792 made Tipu cede about half his territory and pay about ₹3 crore.
- Two of Tipu's sons were taken as hostages.
- The English, Marathas and Nizam shared the ceded lands.

Fourth Anglo-Mysore War, 1799

Causes

- Wellesley feared Tipu's French contacts in the Napoleonic age.
- Tipu refused subsidiary subordination to the Company.

Course

- English columns under Harris and Stuart, with the Nizam's help, closed on Seringapatam.
- The fort fell on 4 May 1799. Tipu was killed fighting.

Results

- Tipu's dynasty ended. About half of Mysore was annexed or shared.
- The rest was restored to the child Krishna (कृष्णा) Raja Wodeyar III under Subsidiary Alliance.
- Kanara, Coimbatore, Wynad and the Seringapatam belt went to the English; the Nizam got Gooty and related tracts.

> Logic: Madras ≠ Mangalore. Tipu did not survive 1799. First Mysore comes after the Second Anglo-French War and long before the First Sikh War.

PYQ — UPPCS Prelims 2020, Q28

Who among the following established a modem armoury in Dindigal Mysore in 1755?

A. Nanjraj

B. Haider Ali

C. Devraj

D. Chikka Krishnaraj

Show answer

Ans: B — Hyder/Haider Ali. Seringapatam is the capital trap, not the armoury site.

2.11 Anglo-Maratha Wars

- The Maratha confederacy had five main houses.
- The Peshwa sat at Poona.
- Sindhia sat at Gwalior.
- Holkar sat at Indore.
- Bhonsle sat at Nagpur.
- The Gaekwad sat at Baroda.
- Chauth was the Maratha claim of one-fourth of land revenue for “protection”. It is not the Subsidiary Alliance.
- Sardeshmukhi was an extra levy of about 10 percent.
- After Panipat 1761, Madhav Rao I (माधवराव) revived Maratha power, but later houses drifted apart. Division helped the Company.

Peshwa order (raata this table)

Peshwa	Approx.
Balaji Vishwanath (बालाजी विश्वनाथ)	1713–20 (first hereditary Peshwa)
Baji Rao I	1720–40
Balaji Baji Rao (Nana Saheb)	1740–61 (Panipat 1761)
Madhav Rao I	1761–72
Narayan Rao (नारायणराव)	1772–73 (murdered)
Raghunath Rao (Raghoba)	disputed 1773–74
Madhav Rao Narayan (II)	infant; Nana Fadnavis era (Nana d. 1800)
Baji Rao II	1796–1818 (Bassein; pensioned at Bithoor)

Anglo-Maratha war ladder

War	Years	End / result tag
First	1775–82	Treaty of Salbai 1782 — English keep Salsette
Second	1803–05	Bassein 1802 (बसीन) opens war; Assaye / Laswari; Deogaon & Surji-Anjangaon
Third	1817–18	Kirkee 1817; Peshwa power ends; Pindari hunt

First Anglo-Maratha War, 1775–82

Causes

- After Narayan Rao's murder, Raghunath Rao (Raghoba) sought Bombay's help.
- Bombay signed the Treaty of Surat, 1775, promising Raghoba the Peshwaship for cessions including Salsette and Bassein claims.
- Calcutta distrusted the deal and tried to revise it by the Treaty of Purandhar, 1776.

Course

- Fighting swung for years. The English suffered a famous reverse at Wadgaon, 1779.
- Nana Fadnavis and Mahadaji Sindhia held the confederacy's centre.
- Warren Hastings pushed a final settlement.

Results

- The Treaty of Salbai, 1782 restored a status quo peace. The English kept Salsette.
- Raghoba was dropped. Madhav Rao Narayan was recognised.
- There was no Subsidiary Alliance yet. About twenty years of relative (सापेक्ष) peace followed.

Second Anglo-Maratha War, 1803–05

Causes

- Holkar crushed Baji Rao II at Poona.
- The Peshwa fled to the English and signed the Treaty of Bassein, 31 December 1802 (subsidiary).
- Sindhia and Bhonsle refused to accept a subsidiary Peshwa as overlord.

Course

- Arthur Wellesley won at Assaye (1803) and Argaon.
- Lord Lake took Delhi and won at Laswari.
- Bhonsle made peace by the Treaty of Deogaon. Sindhia by the Treaty of Surji-Anjangaon.
- Holkar fought on, then settled by the Treaty of Rajpurghat, 1805.

Results

- Maratha houses lost key territories and accepted British paramount pressure.
- Wellesley's wars were costly. He was recalled in 1805.
- The confederacy survived in form but not in independence.

Third Anglo-Maratha War, 1817–18

Causes

- Lord Hastings moved against the Pindaris.
- Maratha houses feared encirclement.
- Baji Rao II attacked the Poona residency.

Course

- The English won at Kirkee (1817) and related actions.
- Pindari bands were hunted down in the same campaign season.
- The Peshwa's power collapsed.

Results

- The Peshwaship was abolished.
- Baji Rao II was pensioned at Bithoor.
- Large Peshwa territories passed into the Bombay Presidency (प्रेसीडेंसी) frame.
- Maratha houses became dependent princes under British paramountcy.
- Central India passed under Company overlordship.

Why the Marathas lost (short):

- The confederacy was divided. Houses fought each other as often as they fought the Company.
- Superior Company artillery, drill and Bengal war finance after Diwani.
- After Bassein the Peshwa himself became a British client, splitting Maratha politics from inside.

> Logic: Surat → Purandhar → Salbai for the First War. Bassein opens the Second. Start every Peshwa chronology with Balaji Vishwanath.

2.12 Sikh Empire, Anglo-Sikh Wars, Treaty of Lahore, Punjab Annexation

- Ranjit Singh (रणजीत सिंह) belonged to the Sukerchakia misl. He was born on 13 November 1780. He unified the Sikh misls and died in 1839.
- His capital was Lahore (taken 1799 after Zaman Shah's goodwill over returned cannon). Amritsar (अमृतसर) (taken 1802) was the religious capital.
- He annexed Multan (1818), Kashmir (1819) and Peshawar / Khyber belt (1834).
- Kohinoor path: Nadir Shah (नादिर शाह) took it from Delhi (1739) → Ahmad Shah Abdali → Shah Shuja → gifted to Ranjit Singh → after Punjab's fall (1849) it passed to the British crown under Dalhousie / Queen Victoria's court.
- He said God wanted him to look on all religions with one eye, so the light of the other eye was taken — a famous line on his religious tolerance.
- He set up modern foundries to manufacture cannons at Lahore (and Amritsar).
- European officers such as Ventura and Allard trained his army.
- He set up the Adalat-i-Ala, the supreme court, at Lahore, not Amritsar.
- The empire stretched from the Khyber to the Sutlej (सतलुज).
- By the Treaty of Amritsar (25 April 1809) with the Company (Metcalfe (मेटकाफ़) for Lord Minto), Ranjit accepted the Sutlej as the southern limit of his push. That kept peace while he lived.
- After 1839 succession chaos (Kharak / Khadag Singh, Nau Nihal Singh, Sher Singh and court factions of Dogra vs Sandhanwalia groups) opened the door to war. The Khalsa (खालसा) army remained powerful but politics collapsed.
- Duleep Singh was the last Sikh ruler (1843–49). He later accepted Christianity, visited Russia, and died in Paris (1893); his funeral was in England.

Sikh empire / Anglo-Sikh timeline

Year	Event
1780	Ranjit born; Sukerchakia misl
1799	Takes Lahore; makes it capital
1802	Takes Amritsar
25 Apr 1809	Treaty of Amritsar with Company (Lord Minto / Metcalfe) — Sutlej limit
1818	Annexes Multan
1819	Annexes Kashmir

Year	Event
1834	Annexes Peshawar belt
1839	Ranjit dies; succession chaos begins
1845–46	First Anglo-Sikh War → Treaty of Lahore 1846 (लाहौर)
13 Jan 1849	Chillianwala (setback / indecisive)
21 Feb 1849	Gujrat — English win
29 Mar 1849	Punjab annexed; Board of Three

First Anglo-Sikh War, 1845–46

Causes

- After Ranjit's death the Lahore court was unstable.
- The Khalsa army crossed the Sutlej. Hardinge treated this as war.

Course

- Battles followed in quick order — Mudki (18 Dec 1845), Ferozeshah, Aliwal, and the decisive Sobraon.
- British losses were heavy, but the Khalsa was forced back.

Results

- The Treaty of Lahore, 1846 ceded the Jullundur Doab, fixed an indemnity, and placed a resident at Lahore.
- Kashmir was sold to Gulab Singh for ₹75 lakh.
- The Treaty of Bhairowal, 1846 tightened control over minor Duleep Singh.
- Punjab was not annexed yet.

Second Anglo-Sikh War, 1848–49

Causes

- In 1848 Diwan Mulraj of Multan rose against British-backed Lahore authority after a clash that killed two British officers.
- The Multan revolt spread into a wider Sikh rising across the plains.
- Dalhousie treated the crisis as a chance for full annexation politics, not another Lahore residency patch.

Course

- British columns first pressed the siege of Multan. Mulraj's fort fell after hard fighting late in 1848.
- Open-field fighting then included Ramnagar and a British setback at Chillianwala (13 Jan 1849) — Lord Gough vs Sher Singh; undecided field.
- The decisive victory came at Gujrat (21 Feb 1849).

Results

- Punjab was annexed on 29 March 1849.
- Duleep Singh was deposed and sent to England on a pension of about ₹4–5 lakh a year (the figure ₹2,50,000 in some stems is the false option).
- The Kohinoor passed from the Lahore treasury into British hands with the settlement.
- Punjab became a Chief Commissionership under the Board of Three.

Board of Three (1849)	Role
Sir Henry Lawrence	President
John Lawrence	Member
Charles Grenville Mansel	Member

Not on that board: H. M. Elliot and Robert Montgomery.

> Logic: 1809 Amritsar ≠ 1846 Lahore ≠ 1849 annexation. Mudki = First Sikh, not Mysore. Sukerchakia = Ranjit's misl. Kohinoor path = Shah Shuja → Ranjit → British (1849).

Ans: B — Lahore. Amritsar is the Golden Temple (स्वर्ण मंदिर) trap.

2.13 Anglo-Nepal War and Treaty of Sugauli, 1816

Governor-General: Lord Hastings (not Warren Hastings)

Causes

- The Gurkhas expanded into Garhwal, Kumaon and Sikkim.
- Border clashes with Company territories and hill claims made war inevitable.
- Lord Hastings wanted a secure Himalayan frontier after the Ring Fence / Subsidiary phase.

Course of the war, 1814–16

- Early British campaigns struggled in the hills against Gurkha defence.

- Nalapani is remembered for Balbhadra Kunwar's defence.
- David Ochterlony pressed Amar Singh Thapa and turned the war toward a British settlement.

Results — Treaty of Sugauli, 1816

- Nepal ceded Kumaon and Garhwal (गढ़वाल).
- It also ceded Sikkim west of the Kali (काली) and strips of the Tarai.
- Nepal remained independent. It was not annexed.
- A British Resident sat at Kathmandu.
- The British gained hill tracts later associated with Shimla, Ranikhet and Nainital (नैनीताल).
- Kathmandu was not obtained.
- Gurkha recruitment into the British army began after the war.

> Logic: Kathmandu trap is standard. Sugauli ≠ Lahore.

2.14 Anglo-Burmese Wars

First Anglo-Burmese War, 1824–26

Causes

- Border clashes in Assam / Arakan and Burmese expansion under the Konbaung kings.
- GG = Amherst, not Dalhousie.

Course

- Hard jungle and river campaign drained both sides.
- Maha Bandula was killed at Danubyu in 1825.
- British pressure finally forced Ava to treat.

Results

- The Treaty of Yandabo, 1826 gave the Company Assam, Manipur, Arakan and Tenasserim.
- War cost was heavy, but Assam entered British orbit.

Second Anglo-Burmese War, 1852

Causes

- Trade and insult disputes under Dalhousie's forward annexation mood.
- Lower Burma commerce and Rangoon control mattered more than Ava's inland court.

Course

- Short coastal–Irrawaddy campaign against a weaker Ava court.

Results

- Pegu / Lower Burma was annexed. Upper Burma still remained under the Konbaung king for a time.

Third Anglo-Burmese War, 1885

Causes

- Thibaw's court politics and British commercial fear of French influence in Upper Burma.

Course

- Rapid advance on Mandalay. Little prolonged field war.

Results

- Thibaw was deposed. Upper Burma was taken. Burma became a province of British India.

> Logic: First Burma War is not Dalhousie's. Basic date fact = Yandabo 1826.

2.15 Sindh Annexation, 1843

Rulers: Talpur Amirs | GG Ellenborough | Field commander Sir Charles Napier

Causes

- After the First Afghan War the British wanted a secure Indus (सिंधु) supply route.
- Earlier pressure included commercial treaties and navigation rights on the Indus.
- Ellenborough chose conquest politics. Napier executed them in the field.
- The Talpur Amirs of Sindh were pressed beyond the older friendship treaties.

Course of the war

- Conquest was prepared gradually, then decided in the field in 1843.
- Battle of Miani (17 February 1843) broke the main Amirs' army.
- Battle of Dabo / Hyderabad (24 March 1843) finished resistance.

Results

- Sindh was annexed in 1843 under Ellenborough / Napier — not under Dalhousie.
- Napier's reported telegram "Peccavi" ("I have sinned") is folklore, not a treaty name.
- Sindh became a British province / strategic Indus base before Punjab's fall in 1849.

> Logic: Sindh is 1843. Punjab is 1849. Ellenborough / Napier, not Dalhousie.

2.16 Pindari campaign and Vellore Mutiny

Pindaris (Lord Hastings)

Causes

- Pindari plunder bands in Malwa / Central India raided Company and allied lands.
- Early nineteenth-century leaders often keyed are Chittu, Karim Khan and Basil Mohammad.
- Lord Hastings linked the Pindari hunt with the final smash of Maratha independence.

Course

- The Pindari campaign (1817–18) ran alongside the Third Anglo-Maratha War.
- British columns from Bengal, the Deccan and Gujarat closed a ring on Malwa.

- Pindari bands were chased, broken and denied sanctuary with Maratha houses.

Results

- Pindari power was destroyed.
- With the Peshwa's fall, British paramountcy in central India was complete.

Vellore Mutiny, 1806

Causes

- New dress codes, leather cockades and caste-religious regulations angered Madras sepoys.
- Tipu's sons and family were confined in Vellore fort after 1799, which kept Mysore memory alive in the garrison town.
- The rising sits after Wellesley's recall (1805).

Course

- On 10 July 1806 sepoys rose in the fort at Vellore.
- Officers were killed and the Tipu standard was briefly raised.
- Colonel Gillespie's relief from Arcot crushed the mutiny the same day.

Results

- The mutiny was crushed. Dress orders were rolled back in part.
- It is an expansion-era chronology fact (after Wellesley 1805, before Nepal 1814), not the Revolt of 1857.

> Logic: Nana Fadnavis d. 1800 → Wellesley recalled 1805 → Vellore 1806 → Anglo-Nepal 1814–16.

2.17 Neighbouring frontiers — Afghan, Bhutan, Tibet, NW policy

First Anglo-Afghan War, 1839–42

Causes

- Nineteenth-century Anglo-Afghan policy rested on fear of Russian expansion toward India (British memory often tags the Russo-Iranian Treaty of Turkmenchay, 1828).
- Auckland planned to replace Dost Muhammad with Shah Shuja.

Course

- British entered Kabul, then faced rising resistance.
- The 1842 retreat from Kabul was a disaster. Elphinstone's column was destroyed.

Results

- Company failure. Dost Muhammad returned.
- The disaster fed later Masterly Inactivity under John Lawrence.

Second Anglo-Afghan War, 1878–80

Causes

- Lytton's Proud Reserve was the Forward Policy line on Afghanistan in the 1870s.
- Embassy disputes and fear of Russian influence opened war.

Course

- British invasions and fluctuating Kabul politics followed.
- The Treaty of Gandamak phase tried to bind Afghan foreign policy.

Results

- Temporary British control of Afghan foreign policy.
- Later Abdur Rahman settled as Amir under British influence on external affairs.

Third Anglo-Afghan War, 1919

Causes

- Afghan bid for full independence after World War I.

Course

- Short frontier war.

Results

- Afghanistan gained independence in foreign affairs.

Masterly Inactivity vs Proud Reserve / Forward Policy

- John Lawrence's Masterly Inactivity meant caution on Afghanistan after the First War — watch the frontier, avoid costly occupation.
- Lytton's Proud Reserve was the named Forward Policy of the 1870s — assert influence inside Afghan politics rather than wait.
- Do not swap the two. Masterly Inactivity is Lawrence's brake. Forward Policy / Proud Reserve is Lytton's accelerator.

Anglo-Bhutanese War → Treaty of Sinchula, 1865

Causes

- Border friction in Assam / Duars.

Course

- British campaign in the Duars in the 1860s.

Results

- The Treaty of Sinchula (1865) gave Britain the Duars.
- Bhutan kept independence with a subsidy arrangement.

Younghusband mission to Tibet, 1904

Causes

- Curzon's frontier anxiety about Russian influence in Tibet.

Course

- Armed British mission under Younghusband reached Lhasa.

Results

- Treaty pressure on Tibet. Tibet was not annexed as a British province.

> Logic: Do not place First Afghan War under Dalhousie. Masterly Inactivity ≠ Proud Reserve.

2.18 Banaras Rebellion and Akbar Fort, Prayagraj

Banaras Rebellion / Chait Singh, 1781

UP event | present-day Varanasi (वाराणसी) | Raja Chait Singh vs Warren Hastings | August–October 1781

Banaras (Benares) was a semi-autonomous zamindari under Company overlordship after the mid-18th century settlements with Awadh. Raja Balwant Singh had earlier secured recognition (मान्यता); his successor Chait Singh held Banaras when Hastings pressed for war money.

Causes

- Hastings needed cash and troops for Company wars against the Marathas, Mysore, and European rivals.
- From 1778 he levied an emergency war subsidy on Chait Singh (often cited as about ₹5 lakh, repeated in later years). Coaching notes also use a larger arrears / penalty figure of about ₹23 lakh for the final confrontation.
- Hastings also demanded about 2,000 cavalry for Company use. Chait Singh delayed or refused full compliance.
- Hastings treated this as disobedience and went personally to Banaras in August 1781 to enforce payment and punish the Raja.

Course

- At Shivala (Sivala) in Banaras, Hastings tried to place Chait Singh under arrest / house arrest.
- Chait Singh's supporters rose, attacked the small Company guard, and killed officers and sepoys. This is sometimes called the Shivala / Sivala clash.
- Hastings barely escaped and took shelter at Chunar Fort.
- The rising spread into nearby countryside and briefly disturbed Company lines toward Awadh / Bihar posts.
- Company columns, including forces under Major Popham, crushed the revolt by about October 1781.

- Chait Singh fled toward Gwalior / Bundelkhand exile. He was deposed.

Results

- Banaras came under much closer Company control. A more pliant relative, Mahip Narayan Singh, was installed as Raja with reduced real power.
- Annual tribute and Company supervision tightened. Banaras's earlier virtual autonomy ended.
- The Banaras episode, along with the Begums of Awadh case and Rohilla charges, became a main count in Hastings's long impeachment (1788–95) in Britain. He was finally acquitted.
- This is a 1781 Warren Hastings event in UP. It is not the 1857 Banaras rising and not a Dalhousie annexation.

Lock	Fact
Year	1781
Place	Banaras / Varanasi (Shivala; Hastings fled to Chunar)
Raja	Chait Singh
Company head	Warren Hastings
Suppression	Major Popham and reinforcing columns
Aftermath	Deposition; closer Company control; impeachment charge

Akbar Fort, Prayagraj

- This is the Mughal fort at the Ganga (गंगा)–Yamuna (यमुना) sangam (संगम) at Allahabad / Prayagraj.
- It is not the Delhi or Agra fort (आगरा किला).
- The Treaty of Allahabad, 1765 was settled in this belt.
- Shah Alam II lived for a time under Company protection here.
- The Company also tightened control of the Doab.

UP Focus

Site	Expansion fact
Prayagraj / Allahabad	1765 treaty; Akbar Fort; fort handed over by Saadat Ali Khan II in 1798
Awadh	Shuja at Buxar; Begums case linked to Hastings's impeachment; subsidiary 1801; annex 1856
Banaras / Varanasi	Chait Singh rebellion 1781 vs Warren Hastings; Shivala clash; Chunar refuge
Chunar	Hastings sheltered here during the 1781 rising
Sardhana (Meerut (मेरठ))	Begum Samru church; Sardhana jagir after Walter Reinhardt Sombre
Jhansi	Lapse 1853 → later 1857 revolt
Rohilkhand	Rohilla War 1774; later Awadh cessions

> Logic: Banaras 1781 = Warren Hastings vs Chait Singh. Do not merge with 1857. Akbar Fort = Prayagraj (प्रयागराज). Prayagraj fort transfer = 1798, not 1790–97.
